It was the last time we lost a fight without you And finally now you understand This was the dream and answer Never stop this All I wanted was you by my side Those were true days I watched them fall away These boards will break These boards will break against my ribs We're shown ourselves With our pride atrophied A virture burns hot enough to cauterize These boards will break These were true days I watched them fall away I don't blame the last step in the sequence It was your way So many times we cursed your name And I do not say I hold no regrets when I close my eyes Just think of the things we could have done I've shown myself With my pride atrophied I hope you know we always loved you Forgive me for all things Even though I watched us fall away Wwith determination we carry on And with determination we all must live on We've all learned things from those days I know that we all have grown Even I now feel a calm like I have never known
