

Reminders

Miss Montreal

Coffee for two and no sign of you
It takes you so long
I hug empty sheets and they don't hug me
Now that you're gone, you're gone

A life lived by two is divided to one

I see reminders of what we once were
Reminding me of all that I loved, I lost
Reminders, it's time for closure
But I remember that I can't forget

It hit me so hard, it damn broke my heart
Can't put together what we pulled apart

A life lived by two is divided to one

I see reminders of what we once were
Reminding me of all that I loved, I lost
Reminders, it's time for closure
But I remember that I can't forget

I wake up with no love
I wake up with no love
But I still wake up

And I see reminders of what we once were
Reminding me of all that I loved, I lost
Reminders, it's time for closure
But I remember that I can't forget

And I'm not ready to lose you just yet