Gotta put the phone away
And look up at this pretty place
But bad habits are hard to break
Seeing everyone get what I want
Wondering if I did something wrong
And I know I'm not the only one
Who's dizzy from comparison

And I know it's no good, it's unhealthy
But everyone here looks so lovely
Yeah, self-deprecation is ugly
I'm a moth to the flame, so don't judge me

'Cause I'm already doing it
Worse than I want to admit
Constantly excusing it
I'm the one who's fueling it
Addict and I gotta quit
Before this shit is permanent
None of this is elegant
Heavy and it's delicate
And I'm so good at hiding it
Ultraviolet

Been out of my body since I was a kid
I did a lot of things I wish I never did
When you're fifteen years old and emancipated
Fifteen years later, still trying to forgive

And I know it's no good, it's unhealthy
But everyone here looks so lovely
Yeah, self-deprecation is ugly
I'm a moth to the flame, so don't judge me

'Cause I'm already doing it
Worse than I want to admit
Constantly excusing it
I'm the one who's fueling it
Addict and I gotta quit
Before this shit is permanent
None of this is elegant
Heavy and it's delicate
And I'm so good at hiding it
