

Live to Find

Mobile

Time will come and go before I know what I can do
With all the dreams I keep behind my eyes.
Times are hard 'cause all my friends have disappeared from view
To leave me wondering - will it ever work out right?

We all live to find something we can hold on.
We all live to find a life that we could die for.

There's a hole deep in your soul and the pain is getting through;
Denying every sign of hope way out of sight.
All the lies you said could never really hide the truth;
They come back to haunt you from time to time.

We all live to find something we can hold on.
We all live to find a life that we could die for.

You say, you say yesterday went too soon.
You say, you say we never lost our youth.
You say, you say..
You say, you say..

We all live to find something we can hold on.
We all live to find a life that we could die for.

A life that we could die for.
