

School Closure

Mobile

It was a lonely day, think it was late in the month of September
The everlasting gaze, I guess I've been set up never to show my emotions
Then I heard a sinister voice that is calling my name
They put a price on my head yet I never know how to explain
They say the blue-eyed boy is a liar and a bit of a pain
They're coming after you
Better run away out of this place

You're gonna have to pay
For all your misgivings done in the course of your actions
You oughta carry the weight
Of all your wrongdoings, I'm caught in a chain reaction

Is it true, did you spit on the girl and you pulled out her hair
Cause I been told everything that you do and the way you behave
She said the blue-eyed boy is a liar and bit of a pain
I sorted out all the tricks, and the moves, and the games that you played

And then I dreamed it would be over
And then I dreamed I could have been the spark, the flame, the light, the change

I met a man who was heavily shattered and caught up in pain
He said, I'm next to you if you ever need comfort and change
Just like the blue-eyed boy
He was already fucked up and shamed
We sorted out all the tricks, and the moves, and the games that you played
