

Unconditional

Molly Burch

I chase the feeling of being your favorite
That's why even when it hurts I'll stay on Like it's my calling

I'm holding out for you to realize we're a team
I'm your Marilyn you're the silver screen
And you can hardly believe

I remember everything you tell me
To impress you I hope it's working
Now we have these inside feelings
You can telling me all your secrets

I can be the one who consoles you
When you feel like you're just a nobody
We can conquer the world together
Until you think you found someone better (better)

And now you're gone I have to move on
(It wasn't) unconditional
I'm right, you're wrong and time will unfold
(And I'm like) barely hanging on
I'm gonna need a minute
Maybe more than that
To mourn this fantasy I had
You'll go and I'll stay pretend it's okay
(It wasn't) unconditional

I'm the one you text when you're lonely
Until you find another then I'm ghosted
To be honest

But I'm the one who cleans up your messes
I'm the cure to your seasonal depression
I'm the fun idea until commitment
I know you think you tried but you didn't (didn't)

And now you're gone I have to move on
(It wasn't) unconditional
I'm right, you're wrong and time will unfold
(And I'm like) barely hanging on
I'm gonna need a minute
Maybe more than that
To mourn this fantasy I had
You'll go and I'll stay pretend it's okay
(It wasn't) unconditional

Oh, remember when your mom said she liked me?
Oh, baby, I know you know this could be exciting
Oh, I'm not asking you for help
Anymore, just looking out for myself
