

Good Boy

Mon Laferte

I woke up and you were away
I crawled over miles to smell you
Your skin was so undefiled
And your eyes were so green

Your skin was so full of kisses
Your eyes were so full of sex
I took a needle and stitched your teeth
Your fangs peeked over your lower lip
You went straight to my pussy
Before, you didn't stick out your tongue like that
Since you drank the whole ocean
Something is different, different

We lie down on the roof
You're still a good boy
Good boy
We lie down on the roof
Your sweat is more and more flexible
We lie down on the roof
You're still a good boy
A good boy
We lie down on the roof
And I can hear stars in every drop

You looked like a greek statue
The cotton factory grew
Your veins like a pipes
The blood is going to escape us
I am already united to you
We wet everything
Everything
I love being close to you
Forever
Forever

We lie down on the roof
You're still a good boy
A good boy
We lie down on the roof
Your sweat is more and more flexible
We lie down on the roof
You're still a good boy
A good boy
We lie down on the roof
And I can hear stars in every drop

We lie down on the roof
We lie down on the roof
We lie down on the roof
