

Saga City

Monuments

Sitting on answers
That time makes it's crown
And divides ourselves into questions
Do you remember that all life at the bottom of the well
In the city where all is one with all?
Reminding us both that we chose to make this place our vessel
Our deliverance

We're falling deep
Bound to each other somewhere
Calling out until the end of time
Break out the silence
Hold it close until it throws me

So far away
The living memory
Forgot of yesterday
The part of me that wouldn't die or let the story lose its way
I don't know where you stand
But I will bring this plan into a higher place
Too soullessly I dedicated my love for Saga City

But then they came down
And corrupted inside
Brothers with throats cut knives cross the street
And takes down the thundering herd
With violence with them moving like thieves in the night

Thrive!
I wouldn't kneel before you
I wouldn't call you king
With gall I'll take my leave
And set the stage for your death
I'll set the stage for your death
And escape with the tomb

We're falling deep
Bound to each other somewhere
Calling out until the end of time
Break down the silence
The chase these walls were greater fearing

So far away
The living memory
Forgot of yesterday
The part of me that wouldn't die or let the story lose its way
I don't know where you stand
But I will bring this plan into a higher place
Too soullessly I dedicated my love for Saga City

You love this bowl of sin and treachery
So just tell me this
Who the fuck do you think you really are? (Yeah!)
Who the fuck do you think you really are, Father?
