I'll Be Here

Moonchild

You've got a plan, I know it by heart
Been pieced together and picked apart
Tire your tongue and you won't see reward
You've got to get your feet on board

You've got to find it on your own
But I'll be here
It hurts to watch you fight alone
But I'll be here

You've heard it more than once before
You've come too far not to open the door
People stop calling and lending a hand
The world can feel like sinking sand

You've got to find it on your own
But I'll be here
It hurts to watch you fight alone
But I'll be here

Nobody can knock for you, start for you, deal for you
We all have hills to climb
Nobody can walk for you, hurt for you, heal for you
Healing takes work and time
I promise, you'll get through it
It's only a step to start
It's not easy, but it's worth every part

You're gonna find it on your own
But I'll be here
It hurts to watch you fight alone
But I'll be here

Nobody can knock for you, walk for you
Nobody can deal for you, heal for you
Nobody can hurt for you, work for you
Nobody can feel for you, heal for you

You're gonna find it on your own
And I'll be here
You're gonna find it on your own
And I'll be here
