

Over For You

Morgan Evans

How long have you been waiting
To take our pictures down
How long have you been breaking
Why am I just finding out
It kills me to know
You were drifting alone
You don't have to stay, no
But can I say before you go

I would have searched the whole world over for you
Took a flight, through the night
To be that shoulder for you, and
I would've let go if you wanted me to
How many times did you say you loved me
When it wasn't true
I'm just wondering
How long has it been over for you

How long, how long, how long, how long
How long
How long, how long, how long, how long
How long

What do you tell your parents
What do you tell yourself
Was it something I was missing
Or is there someone else
It kills me to know
This house ain't a home
And you don't wanna stay, no
But can I say before you go

I would have searched the whole world over for you
Took a flight, through the night
To be that shoulder for you, and
I would've let go if you wanted me to
How many times did you say you loved me
When it wasn't true
I'm just wondering
How long has it been over for you

How long, how long, how long, how long
How long
How long, how long, how long, how long

Maybe some day I'll be okay
But right now I don't know
You used to tell me everything
And that's what hurts the most

It would be easier if I hated you
But I still miss the person
That I thought I knew (and I)
I would've let go if you wanted me to
How many times did you say you loved me
When it wasn't true
I'm just wondering

How long has it been over
I'm still wondering
How long has it been over for you
