

We Dream

Morgan Evans

No matter who you are or where you come from
Anybody can be anybody, anyone you want
Nobody, no, nobody can tell us what to see
When we dream

Seventeen on a beach in an old Toyota truck
Wheels in the sand, guitar in hand, oh no, we weren't stuck
Talking 'bout who we wanna be, talking 'bout where we wanna go
Yeah, I remember feeling like we were already on the road

We dream to escape, we dream to let go
To feel what it's like walking streets of gold
Turn grey skies blue, turn hope into truth
Yeah, someday, sometimes all you can do is
Dream from small towns of big city lights
Turn a heartbreak into love at first sight
When we look at the world and we don't like what we see
We close our eyes and we dream

No matter who you are or where you come from
Anybody can be anybody, anyone you want
Nobody, no, nobody can tell us what to see
When we dream

One did it all, jumped a plane, landed in LA
One's on and endless summer, tryna find the perfect way
And I'm half way across the world, I'm still up here on stage
Only the cities and the songs and the faces have changed

We dream to escape, we dream to let go
To feel what it's like walking streets of gold
Turn grey skies blue, turn hope into truth
Yeah, someday, sometimes all you can do is
Dream from small towns of big city lights
Turn a heartbreak into love at first sight
When we look at the world and we don't like what we see
We close our eyes and we dream

Yeah, look at me right here and look at us right now
Look how far we've come, we're still running 'em down
Like we did when we were kids in a truck on a beach at seventeen
Yeah, we dream

We dream to escape, we dream to let go
To feel what it's like walking streets of gold
Turn grey skies blue, turn hope into truth
Yeah, someday, sometimes all you can do is
Dream from small towns of big city lights
Turn a heartbreak into love at first sight
When we look at the world and we don't like what we see
We close our eyes and we dream

So we dream