

Milena

Moriarty

You lost your heart to a sand man
You dreamed you'd be running hand in hand
Oh Milena, oh Milena

He was so bright, he burned his soul
Paid the price, took the toll
Oh, Milena

And don't you wake the sleeping pharaohs
They sleep so hard, they sleep so hard
Now don't you wake the sleeping pharaohs
They sleep so hard

Stranger to those with an easy life
Those who were born with an inmate soul
Oh Milena, oh Milena

Those who were chained to discipline
Those who were trained to be a wife
Oh Milena, oh Milena

Too wise to die, too weak to stay
For all I know he is gone
He is gone, oh Milena

He was so bright, he burned your glee
And now you call him with this voice
Oh Milena, strong like the sea

And don't you wake the sleeping pharaohs
They sleep so hard, they sleep so hard
Now don't you wake the sleeping pharaohs
They sleep so hard
