

Woke up to the world that we knew
Which belonged to me and to you
Restless, as I withdrew
I couldn't chase the light in you

The less I need someone
The less I hurt somehow
The streets have kept me young
Still I wander

I can't seem to get it right
Much as I want all of you
I can't seem to see the light
Much as I

We had, had enough
Lies that we both knew
We had called this love
A love that wasn't true

The less I need someone
The less I hurt somehow
What truth has kept me from
Still I wander

I can't seem to get it right
Much as I want all of you
I can't seem to see the light
Much as I

I can't seem to get it right
Much as I want all of you
I can't seem to see the light
Much as I

Just, just, just, just
Just like I need you
Just, just show up, show up
Show up, show up, show up
If you just show up, showed up, show up
I need your love, your love, your love
I need to feel right