

I gaze towards a barren land
My eyes are fixed on nothingness
I close my eyes, close my eyes, eyes, close them
Searching deep inside my own self

In a field of broken years
And a thousand blood red tears
The sun falls down further down down deeper
As we all become weaker

Falling into endless sleep
Bereaved of all my dreams
In a field of broken years
And a thousand scarlet tears
Unknown voices calling me
They're calling eternally
While all your memories
Fade into obsolete

I gaze towards whatever end
As a scarlet sun descends
The sun falls down further down down deeper
Into the arms of lost dreamers

I gaze towards a vast night sky
As the silver moon arise
Moon rides high riding high high higher
And how the silver-eye shines brighter

Falling into endless sleep
Bereaved of all my dreams
In a field of broken years
And a thousand scarlet tears
Unknown voices calling me
They're calling eternally
While all your memories
Fade into obsolete

On a lost horizon
You pass into the night
Just like a scarlet sunset
Plunging into fire
Watched you from a distance
As our lives slipped away
So the journey ended right here
Where night defies the day

Falling into endless sleep
Bereaved of all my dreams
In a field of broken years
And a thousand scarlet tears
Unknown voices calling me
They're calling eternally
While all your memories
Fade into obsolete