

Swim Like a Fish

Morten Abel

They found him floating more that 22 miles from the bridge he was a tough kid They found and swollen but anyone could have told him not to grow so quick swim like a fish, upstream, to where the river is deep pushed too hard in all directions till he ran out of luck cut every corner till finally they shut him up fifty kilo stone in a bag tied to his feet

don't let it be complicated there's a right place and a right time some rules are sacred it's dangerous to cross that line everybody's going to recognise what you are trying to disguise swim like a fish, upstream, to where the river is deep

swim like a fish, upstream, to where the river is deep nice and easy going with the dream that will wake you up don't let it get complicated
