

Love's Refrain

Moses Sumney

I lied
I'm in love all the time
I fetch for the kiss of death, unrequited
I light the candle
You curl up solo
I scan your window, uninvited
I've been in the trench
Begging for something precious
But a friendship presided
I was in my room
You were in yours too

Well let's refrain
From love's refrain

I was bitterly lending love
Incandescent summer rain with no thunder
We grew bigger than our bodies
Yet our bodies tore us asunder
We moved much too hot to see
Domesticity fantasies were there in each other
I was in my womb
And you were in yours too

Well let's refrain
From love's refrain
Well let's refrain
From love's refrain

Spirit speak to me
Spirit speak to me
Spirit speak to me
Spirit speak to me
Speak to me, speak to me

Ooh
