Do you remember how we met? Silhouetted by the lights... You were drunk and tried to take a mental picture with your han ds I was thinking about that And a bunch of other things Stop looking at the floor... I need to pour out this expansive dose of words.

I can't explain... I need to be alone.

I know the timing isn't great But these things, you just can't plan. I just need a little time So I can find myself again 'Cause I get buried underneath All the things they think you are And I'm too tired to pretend it doesn't hurt To be left out

I had a pocket full of dreams But I gave them all to you Now I think I want them back So can you tell me if I'm crazy or confused? Don't ever change The way you are I've never loved anyone more.
