

He screwed her head on sideways
Forever & evernine
And when her eyes arrest him
He just laughs and slaps her behind
Pretending that all is fine

And while the flower's dying
The only eyes that understand
She keeps inside the mirror
In that wonderful peaceful land
Where there's neither breath nor hand

Where left is right is never wrong
And where the weak is always strong

And when the time is right
The dark will fall into the light
The sound will make the sleeping wake
And really see what is at stake

Within that maze so timeless
She's drifting in her own flow
And if she lets you find her
She's the bravest you'll ever know
If you squint you can still see her glow....