

Pink Light

Mount Eerie

Our bones do blow away
In pink light
And in pink light we found each other
In the spring dripping with flowers
Now in wind filled with human remains
The petals won't stop blowing
With each setting sun asking
Could there be another spring?