

PLANETS

Mount Eerie

As long as I am drawing breath the world still exists
But when I die everything will vanish

The two of us are planets crashing through separate lives
With my eye, every shape created

I don't know you and you never will know me
From inside my bubble I think I see you
While you smile and yawn