

It's taking over me, it's taking everything I have
To keep myself from wanting to be apart of you
Inside my ailing mind I bribe myself to think that I am made for you what can I do for us to make it through

I know it's hard to see the wounds inside of me
I'm hiding underneath all my suffering
And even if I cry I'll never close my eyes
To see through all the lies you bestowed to me
When all is clarity the hate you gave to me
With all sincerity hurts like a disease
The wings that brought you here will take you far and near
But you will always be no angel to me

You fill me with distrust
I'm writhing in disgust as I am told another person has loved y ou till it hurt
I want to seep inside, I want to sleep beside you when Your heart depends on stranger's lust just to feel alive

I know it's hard to see the wounds inside of me
I'm hiding underneath all my suffering
And even if I cry I'll never close my eyes
To see through all the lies you bestowed to me
When all is clarity the hate you gave to me
With all sincerity hurts like a disease
The wings that brought you here will take you far and near
But you will always be no angel to me

I know it's hard to see the wounds inside of me
I'm hiding underneath all my suffering
And even if I cry I'll never close my eyes
To see through all the lies you bestowed to me
When all is clarity the hate you gave to me
With all sincerity hurts like a disease
The wings that brought you here will take you far and near
But you will always be no angel to me