

Roly Poly

Mt. Joy

Every morning, I go insane
And I just want to break that chain
'Cause I heard that you found a friend
On a white horse in the desert sand
There you go like a roly poly and you rattle around my brain
I wanna make you proud of me even if I can't ever see you again

Tell me that all we are is the sum of your love near and far
Wake me up when we have to start
Pounding through the changing scars like
Ooh, ooh
Ooh, ooh

There you go like a roly poly and you rattle around my brain
Somedays I just laugh, but others, I'm amazed at the way your love has stained

I still leave your dried up paint
In the driveway and when it rains the colors burst into my brain
A thousand roads that could have been

There you go like a roly poly and you rattle around my brain
I wanna make you proud of me even if I can't ever see you again
