

You're crying out for a breath of air
You need a kill but the shells are bare
Look in the mirror, there's no one there
You know where, you know where
A fear and panic spreading all around
A sentence comes and it goes to town
You're feeling hungry and you're feeling ill
But you jumped into the fire when you should have sat still

You let a vampire into your house
You let a vampire into your house
You let a vampire into your house
You let a vampire into your house

The virus crept, a darkness fell
An empty silence, a raging yell
You felt a chill, the air was thin
But you didn't lock the door, you let him walk right in
He told you lies, he cast a spell
Taught you to hate and you did it well
And now you wonder why there's nothing left
You should have known his fantasy was nothing but death

You let a vampire into your house
You let a vampire into your house
I said a vampire into your house
You let a vampire into your house

You let a vampire into your house
You let a vampire into your house
You let a vampire into your house
(And now your house is on fire)
You let a vampire into your house
(And now your house is on fire)

Fire, fire, your house is on fire
Fire, fire, your house is on fire
Fire, fire, your house is on fire
Fire, fire, your house is on fire

You let a vampire
You let a vampire
You let a vampire
You let a vampire into your house