

Guardian XIII

MyChildren MyBride

Awoken from a most eternal sleep
Can this be a purgatory? or a dream?
A distant future, where darkness crawls
Ever closer to, our solar systems walls

You say that you've been searching?
For miles? for years?
Resurrect me, from my life before this
Little ghost
Won't you stop haunting me
For every door that's locked
Are you the key?

I don't remember an Earth
Not like this
A last city full of guardians
Suiting up to kill
Mechanical mercury
So close to our beautiful star
Venus, a sanctuary
Endless archives uncovered on mars
Ventured off through saturn's rings
To the awoken at the reef

A golden age is worth nothing
When it ends in fear

Awoken from a most eternal sleep
Can this be a purgatory, or a dream?

A distant future
Where darkness crawls
Ever closer to
Our solar systems walls

The hunters stalk, the titans strike
The warlock unleashes
The void with might
A fallen race, a tortured hive
Cabal forces, the vexed minds
All Consumed by light

You say that you've been searching?
For miles? for years?
Resurrect me, from my life before this
Oh mighty traveler, why did you travel here?
A golden age is worth nothing, when it ends in fear

Little ghost, won't you stop haunting me
For every door that's locked, are you the key?
