

One Fine Day

Myles Kennedy

One fine day, this, too, shall fade
You never know, never know, never know
This long lament, this bitter end
Let it go, let it go, let it go

Keep moving on, move on
The road is winding as the day is long
Somewhere beyond, a new dawn
Beckons us to find the place where we belong

Though it's so hard to wait
For changes to come
They're only a heartbeat away

The ache inside, the restless nights
So alone, so alone, so alone
And hopes intent to love again
Only grows, only grows, only grows

So here we are, too far
In the deep again with drowning hearts
Where do we start, it's so hard
Through our tragedies, we found out who we are

Though it's so hard to wait
For changes to come
They're only a heartbeat away

The long-suffering is never gone
The tragedies we face, we can't outrun
But time heals the ache
Though all we had is gone
The promise still remains
Of what's to come
Hm, what's to come

And though it's so hard to wait
For changes to come
They're only a heartbeat away

And the hope still remains
That a radiant love
Is only a heartbeat away

One fine day, this, too, shall fade
You never know, never know, never know
One fine day, this, too, shall fade
You never know, never know, never know
