

Until the End

Myrath

I could fade into the line
Truths erased by grand design
Set me free, silently
Raise the veil where nothing's left to see
Enter light
Find no soul behind the eyes
With everything undone

Everyone will bend somehow, as everything breaks down
I just never wanted to be numb until the end
Maybe truth was shaped before we knew the line was drawn
Clearly all was open, but the ground gave out beneath my run

Calm was drawn with mirrored light
And the ground... tired and dry
Hear it break, the mirror screams
Now light breaks through the walls of perfect lies

Enter light
Find no soul behind the eyes
Sacrifice your voice to wake the blind
Now the truth is burning through my sight
Don't go back to marble eyes
Just enter the light

Everyone will bend somehow, as everything breaks down
I just never wanted to be numb until the end
Maybe truth was shaped before we knew the line was drawn
Clearly all was open, but the ground gave out beneath my run