Teenage Dreams

Calm down now Gotta trust the mind Take as common sense In the blood of time

Can't talk much just a little bit The truth is a tree if you start shaking it

Sometimes I ask the wrong questions but I get the right answers Moved to a tear by the subway breakdancer

It's never too late for teenage dreams It's never too late It's never too late for teenage dreams Teenage dreams

Wind is blowing Did you mark that speed In between the days When the tremor seats

And the overstock of these easy times Has the warnings of birds in coal mines

Sometimes I ask the wrong questions but I get the right answers Moved to a tear by the subway breakdancer

It's never too late for teenage dreams

You'll get through the days when you're way too late And the clouds lift the top off of the empire state Even those days

You have the feeling Someone's listening Through everyone's overtalking We sit we wait and we empty our plates Let's prove that this year something's coming

Sometimes I ask the wrong questions but I get the right answers Moved to a tear by the subway breakdancer

It's never too late for teenage dreams It's never too late It's never too late for teenage dreams Teenage dreams

Sometimes I ask the wrong questions but I get the right answers Moved to a tear by the subway breakdancer
