P.O.N.

Nappy Roots

I can handle it when we casually meet
When I bump into you on the street
And you're standing there with him, hand in hand
But when I'm alone and it's late at night
And I know he's there lying by your side
Then baby, it's more than my heart can stand

More than my heart can stand
I just might go crazy
Cos the pain is more than my heart can't stand
Baby, please come back
Can't you see that I'm a fractured man

Down to taking fifteen breaks a day or so
I say it's for a smoke, but I quit years ago
It's really just to dry my eyes again
But most of the time I can put my will through
To the midnight hour, bring on the calls to you
Then baby, it's more than my heart can stand

More than my heart can stand
I just might go crazy
Cos the pain is more than my heart can't stand
Baby, please come back
Can't you see that I'm a fractured man

I can hear a funny joke, I can hang with the folks
And never mention your name, baby
I can laugh for a while, make a smile with the best in the land
But I don't know how much longer I can

More than my heart can stand
I just might go crazy
Cos the pain is more than my heart can't stand
Baby, please come back
Can't you see that I'm a fractured man

More than my heart can stand
I can just blame it on my heart
Blame it on my heart
More than my heart can stand
Ooh baby, yeah, yeah, come on home
More than my heart can stand
I just might go crazy, I just might go crazy
More than my heart can stand
Baby, please come back
Can't you see that I'm a fractured man
