

Diving in the Deep End

Natalie Imbruglia

Why should it be
someone like me
could make the same mistakes again haven't I learned
people get hurt
when they go diving in the deep end
in the deep end
in the deep end
in the deep end

thought I was smart controlling the art, of turning of my intuition haven't I seen since I was fourteen
that life is all just repetition you lose or you win
you sink or you swim
when you go diving in the deep end
in the deep end
in the deep end
in the deep end

now it's time to realise you don't have to agonize you don't have to compromise but the one thing you must do is open your eyes open your eyes
open your eyes

why should it be
someone like me
could make the same mistakes again
haven't I learned
people get hurt
when they go diving in the deep end
in the deep end
in the deep end
in the deep end