Navy Blue

Yeah
I'm grateful
You got this
You got it
Yeah

I write this shit in retrospect and catch a vibe
Cry alone as I digress and left the rest behind
Nothing less of mine, yours, I was petrified
Disown lines, they circulate, this kind of nature gets divided
Spliffy had me coiled up and now I live the livest
Every morning I awake and pray
I need reminders, of where I was before I jeopardized it, that's private Words is nothing in a verse unless you exercise 'em
And two ends of the spectrum that I let collide
My two hands hold blessings that I set aside
Everything I think I know, pleasure on the brink of growth
Smoking had me thinking slow, notice I ain't have a drink
Listen to the strength and hope, Navy sliding on the rows
My sister sliding in a Rover, thought I found a pot of gold but had to charm another Cobra
My baby done, it's over
You know I love a challenge and my momma made a soldier
What to do with all this talent? Grief or balance on my shoulders
Please rid me of this pit, had a lovely dose, I need closure
Close the door on what I tore apart, my heart is broken
Ball was in your court, I can't believe I left you open
This the way it go, the way to growth is through the ruins
Wipe the tears and keep it moving, life is such a doozy
Ain't no coincidence I found a truth and simply choosing, the better path
I never asked what I was to do
Now I know cause this is more to me than making music
This is therapeutic
Days are racing by with my impending doom
Yes I praise Ifa with equal praise to Buddha
All my faith in God, I'm glad I found the rooms
When I break out my cocoon
This the better me, the user of the tools
That I acquired, my body, my soul
My arrival, divine timing

My body, my soul, my spirit aligned
My body, my soul, my spirit aligned
My body, my soul, my body, my soul
My body, my soul, my spirit aligned
Yeah (My body, my soul, my spirit aligned)
My body, my soul, my spirit aligned
Peace (My body, my soul, my body, my soul)
(My body, my soul, my spirit aligned)
