

Your prey is waging war against themselves
Taking the blame
Bearing a cross that should be yours
Living your shame

Is it sleep you're sleeping?
Is it air you're breathing?
Is it blood you're bleeding?

How can you maim a life
Just like that?
How can you crush a soul
Without regret?

A rainbow of life
Shattered under your darkened skies

Why don't you pierce yourselves upon a rusty pile?

And rid the world of your vile?
No heart no soul
Only senseless meat
Failure doomed in need

Wounds can be healed
But guilt cannot be killed

For your prey
Judgment day
Is every goddamn day

Your prey is waging war against themselves
Taking the blame
Bearing a cross that should be yours
Living your shame