

A Little at a Time

Neal McCoy

Sometimes love just fails without a reason
That sparkle in her eyes just isn't there
The writings on the wall and her silence tells it all
She's not in love but that don't mean she doesn't cares

So she's leaving me a little at a time
She's still here in body
But I'm afraid she's made up her mind

She's tryin' to be true to her heart
And somehow go without breaking mine
So she's leaving me a little at a time

There's times I wished she come right out and say
That once or twice I think she's even tried

She wonders if I know and could I survive the blow
She's not sure just how to say goodbye

So she's leaving me a little at a time
She's still here in body
But I'm afraid she's made up her mind

She's tryin' to be true to her heart
And somehow go without breaking mine
So she's leaving me a little at a time

She's tryin' to be true to her heart
And somehow go without breaking mine
Oh, she's leaving me a little at a time
