

New Roads

Ned LeDoux

Dead-end path, washed out dreams ahead
It's tough moving forward, when you're running out of tread
Stop and ask yourself which way you want to go
Sometimes the trail you're on is one you don't want to know

You take the risk on a road less traveled on
Believe in yourself and you can't go wrong

Just let it roll out, there in front of you
It may not work out, the way you want it to
Journey of stories, of what's untold
Find new roads

You've learned a thing or two, since way back when Know where you come from, remember where you've been
The rains will fall, and the sun won't shine
You might break even, every once in a while

The work you put in, it all comes around
It'll build you up and it'll knock you back down

Just let it roll out, there in front of you
It may not work out, the way you want it to
Journey of stories, of what's untold
Find new roads

This old highway, it circles back around
Might take a detour, or you might breakdown
Miles of yesterday, through life you travel on
You've learned a thing or two and you've only just begun

Just let it roll out, there in front of you
It may not work out, the way you want it to
Journey of stories, of what's untold
Find new roads

Just let it roll out, there in front of you
It may not work out, the way you want it to
Journey of stories, of what's untold
Find new roads
Find new roads
Find new roads
