Restless

Needtobreathe

Just before you called
I thought we were doing fine
But I was wrong
Your voice came down the line
Forced me to the thought of life
If you were gone

We're just tired of talking to the busy sounds The hardest heart still breaks when it goes without We're all the ghosts of who we used to be We might know, if we could see

Don't look now 'cause I can't escape I get so restless
We won't know until it's too late
But I'll have years to think of
The way I'd do the things I did
Just to chase the pain away
We're here now and I can change
But I'm still restless

Push, the urge away

To wake up feeling just the same as yesterday

Time, it heals the pain

But painful is the angry heart when time remains

We're just tired of walking through the faceless crowd We keep our lonely eyes locked on the ground And if my legs could run me into you Then we might know, we might know
