

What Have They Done to the Moon

Neil Sedaka

What have they done to stardust and moon-dreams?
They took the jar and emptied the moonbeams.
That world of fantasy just stopped and ceased to be
The day they traveled to the stars.
They wrecked the dreams you weave,
Next thing they'll have you believe
There ain't no life on Mars.

They left the field but they took the clover,
They stopped the cow from jumpin' over.
They went too far this time,
What they did was just a crime,
They're gonna have to find a new rhyme for June.
They took away the fun,
What have they done to the moon?

Da da da da da da da da,
Da da da da da da da da,
Da da da da da.
Da da da da da da da da,
Da da da da da da da da,
Da da da da da.

They went too far this time,
What they did was just a crime,
They're gonna have to find a new rhyme for June.
They took away the fun,
What have they done to the moon?

Da da da da da da da da,
Da da da da da da da da,
Da da da da da...
