The Portal

Nellie McKay

There's a house down Willow Lane Just a simple sea-side shack Through the wind and pourin' rain She wants you black

There's a portal on the door In the evening, comes a draft From the life we had before You left

Lost in [Incomprehensible] And all I got's the sense of it 'Cause all I had was you

Lost down [Incomprehensible] And all I got's incensed by it Now don't you go away

There is nothin' left to say (I love you so) There is nothin' left to do

There is nothin' left to make (I love you so) There is nothin' left of you

I'm in trouble and I do not see the light There's a problem with my sight It's a fight to stay alive and it's not fair You're everywhere

Callin' up my past But they're all gotten tired of me And all my cryin' spells

Talkin' back to fate The fate has done expired on me And you who knew me well

I'm in trouble and my heart is set to fold
There's a problem with my soul
I'm a stone and it's not rollin' half way there
You're everywhere

There is nothin' left to say (I love you so) There is nothin' left to do

There is nothin' left to take (I love you so) There is nothin' left of you

Lost on Willow Lane Our love has turned to tumbleweed Now don't you blow away
