

Everything

Neuroticfish

To those who think they know everything
I'd like to remind of the suffering
To those who think they could calculate
I'd like to remind of the pain they create

For all of those without a voice
Who want to be heard, through all the noise
For all of those lost and confused
For all of those beaten and bruised

We all share the scars, we all won't belong
We carry the weight and need to be strong
We won't be silent, we won't stand still
The less we are violent, the stronger our will

We all share the scars, we all won't belong
We carry the weight and need to be strong
We won't be silent, we won't stand still
The less we are violent, the stronger our will

To those who look for prosperity
I'd like to remind of their dignity
To those who used to numb a debate
Its not silence what you do create

For all of those who are lost in despair
Who feel displaced and treated unfair
For all of those living in fear
And those who would like to disappear

We all share the scars, we all won't belong
We carry the weight and need to be strong
We won't be silent, we won't stand still
The less we are violent, the stronger our will

We all share the scars, we all won't belong
We carry the weight and need to be strong
We won't be silent, we won't stand still
The less we are violent, the stronger our will

We all share the scars
We all share the scars

We all share the scars, we all won't belong
We carry the weight and need to be strong
We won't be silent, we won't stand still
The less we are violent, the stronger our will