

Angel

NewDad

You're sweet, but I'm sick
I hurt myself for kicks
I'm lost but you're found
Both feet firmly on the ground
And I'm so high, but still so low
I think I'm losing my mind
You're an angel
I'm just trying to be like you
Even if it's painful

You can swim around
But I don't
Want you to drown inside me
It's not fair to be your responsibility

You're kind, but I'm not
It seems that I forgot how to care
About anything but my own despair
And you have a good heart
But I'm sure mine's stopped
And it won't restart
I think it's broken
So you can't own it

You can swim around
But I don't
Want you to drown inside me
It's not fair to be your responsibility

You can swim around
But I don't
Want you to drown inside me
It's not fair to be your responsibility
