

Nutted by Reality

Nick Lowe

Well I heard they castrated Castro
I heard they cut off everything he had
What a dirty low down thing to do
To mess him up like that

They dumped him in a jungle
In the land of the sugar cane
Ever since the day they fiddled around
I said he ain't never been the same

I say Oooh-La
I say Oooh-La
I say Oooh-La

Well I heard they castrated Castro
Because he was the people's friend
They told him once and they told him twice
Said I ain't gonna tell you again

They put a bit of pressure on him
That's when he told them what they could do
So the word came down from a northern town
"Set up a jungle rendezvous"

I say Oooh-La
I say Oooh-La
We say Oooh-La

He had been livin' in a different world
Then he was nutted by reality
He had been living in another tree
Then he flew down
To see what happened

I went out to see my sister
She was not in
So I went and bought a paper
Then I returned
She was well into the racing
On the TV
She has never been that fond of me
I went and turned her over

See I'd been livin' in a different world
Then I was nutted by reality
I had been living in another tree
Then I flew down
To see what happens

I was listening to an echo
I was impressed
Even though I couldn't see it
It was the most
I was jumping and a-gleeing at every one
I was speaking in a foreign tongue
My pleasure gave no pleasure

See I'd been livin' in a different world
Then I was nutterd by reality
I had been barking up another tree
Then I flew down
To see what happened