

In Your Hands

Nick Mulvey

See them come together
Oh they would not be apart
For every other day's another
And that's the only way to start
Can live as one as lovers
Live as two as enemies
So many never know the difference
Come step in the dark with me

With the pale light in your hands
Before I understand, how loving can be
With the pale light in your hands
Before I understand, how it can be

A vicious craving in my bones
Burden in my mind
Kept me one step away from something I could not find
Until I looked inside my aching heart and saw a hive of honey bees
Making honey from my darkness oh from my disease
So now I see although the world is another
Know the world is an enemy
Oh so many never know the difference
Come step in the dark with me

With the pale light in your hands
Before I understand, how loving can be
With the pale light in your hands
Before I understand, how it can be

Oh, yeah
Oh, yeah, yeah, yeah

With the pale light in your hands
Before I understand, how loving can be
With the pale light in your hands
Before I understand, how it can be
With the pale light in your hands
Before I understand, how loving can be
With the pale light in your hands
Before I understand, how it can be

Hey na na hey