

Radical Tenderness

Nick Mulvey

Would you rather be right or free now?
I guess I'd rather be free than right
When we're finally done with the conflict
In the aftermath we find

Radical tenderness now
Some of that natural great peace
Radical tenderness now
Some of that natural great peace

And if I had the restraint of Moses
I'd be humbled by your force
I'd understand it's just a process
River has to run its course

Radical tenderness now
Some of that natural great peace
Radical tenderness now
Some of that natural great peace

Am I a seeker for the answer
Without ever asking why?
I try to push it away but the chance is
It's keeping me alive

Let's be adventurous
Remember it's you and it's me
Radical tenderness now
Some of that natural, natural, great peace

And I saw us blowing away
I saw us as two blades of grass
Swaying in a field so vast
It's not just us it's all the past
What a view
So much more I want to say
Family trees of consequence
Stretching back to Adam then
Shadows seeking to condemn me and you

And the flower of forgiveness will open when we see
That all this vicious business was never you and me

Radical tenderness now
Some of that natural great peace
Radical tenderness now
Some of that natural great peace

Radical tenderness now
Radical tenderness
Radical tenderness now
Radical tenderness

And the flower of forgiveness will open when we see
That all this vicious business was only you and me

Radical tenderness now

Some of that natural great peace
Radical tenderness now
Some of that natural great peace
