

Alone

Nico Santos

Oh, when nothing goes the way it should go
And everything is getting too heavy
Then I can take the weight if you let me, let me, I say
Oh, when you feel like you wanna let go
And everything is too much to carry
Then I can take the weight if you let me

No, you're not alone, alone, alone
You're not alone, alone, alone
When you feel lonely, you're not the only

When all you hear in your head is the same sad song
When everything that you try turns out to be wrong
And when you feel like the way back home is too long
Hold on, hold on, hold on now

How do you pray if you don't even know what for?
How do you know where to go when you're lost in the storm?
How many nights until you can see the dawn?
You're not alone, and I say

Oh, when nothing goes the way it should go
And everything is getting too heavy
Then I can take the weight if you let me, let me, I say
Oh, when you feel like you wanna let go
And everything is too much to carry
Then I can take the weight if you let me

No, you're not alone, alone, alone
You're not alone, alone, alone
When you feel lonely, you're not the only
No, you're not alone

We all break sometimes
But that's when you find
What you need to keep your head up high
And I say

How do you pray if you don't even know what for?
How do you know where to go when you're lost in the storm?
How many nights until you can see the dawn?
You're not alone, and I say

Oh, when nothing goes the way it should go
And everything is getting too heavy
Then I can take the weight if you let me, let me, I say
Oh, when you feel like you wanna let go
And everything is too much to carry
Then I can take the weight if you let me

No, you're not alone, alone, alone
You're not alone, alone, alone
When you feel lonely, you're not the only
No, you're not alone