I look around I don't like what I see The darkness looking back again Now I am waiting for the day to appear And to let the sunlight rescue me

I fell asleep after walking for days
Trying to restore the world
And in my dreams I heard voices so clear
They're calling for me endlessly

I heard a story from another life of mine About the foe that lives beyond this world I heard a tale about a shadow once a friend That brought me with him to the end And that I've only got myself to blame

And I returned from the vision so real So confused not knowing what to do It feels like I have been alive at a dream In a parallel reality

Oh, through day and night I think about the dream It has never felt so real before (And) now I am so afraid to fall asleep And to know how the story the ends And why I've only got myself to blame

Now I'm back in the dream

And I am loosing self-esteem

The voices say that they are spirits from the past

They explain about the one
That rules the kingdom of the night
And how my mother was betrayed
And led astray in the world beyond the world
(The world beyond the world)
(The world beyond the world)

Oh, the spirits tell me
Do remain in light
And never ever let the darkness here (never let the darkness)
Take you in its arms and lead you to slumber
Cause the shadows in the dark will deceive (will deceive you)
Then nothing can relieve
And if you won't believe
Then you've only got yourself to blame
(Only got yourself to blame)
