

The Sun Will Come Up, the Seasons Will Change

Nina Nesbitt

Walking down Parsons green, I can feel the cold
The leaves in the park are turning brown, I'm twenty two years old
Crazy that I was stood right here just five years ago
With the heat on my skin and a lover who is now someone I don't know

You don't see it, when it's happening, happens overtime
First you're laughing, then you're crying
Then you can't decide

My life's uncertain and sometimes strange
But one thing I've learned is it won't stay the same
Even in the darkness I'll be okay
The sun will come up, the seasons will change
The sun will come up, the seasons will change
The sun will come up, the seasons will change

Winter comes racing 'round, something 'bout the air
The fire's on and the chimney smoke is tangled in my hair
Crazy how much my life has changed in just in a year
There's people I've met, people I've left, and some that didn't make it here

You don't see it, when it's happening, happens overtime
First you're laughing, then you're crying
Then you can't decide

My life's uncertain and sometimes strange
But one thing I've learned is it won't stay the same
Even in the darkness I'll be okay
The sun will come up, the seasons will change
The sun will come up, the seasons will change
The sun will come up, the seasons will change
The sun will come up, the seasons will change
The sun will come up, the seasons will change
The sun will come up, the seasons will change
The sun will come up, the seasons will change

The sun will come up, the seasons will change
The sun will come up, the seasons will change
