

Things I Say When You Sleep

Nina Nesbitt

Sunday night, I'm lying on your body
With my legs wrapped round you
Like the safest kind of sorry I could give Cause I know I've let you down before

Dimmed light coming in from the hallway
You're in your black jeans
I'm in white lingerie
And it's 3am, I'm lying awake thinking

That when I'm sad my eyes run like streams
But yours stay dry as you clench your teeth
And that's how I know that you're the one for me

Cause I think about you on the train
Love how you say my second name
It seems without you I'm insane
Now you're asleep but I'm gonna say it anyway
I love you
I love you

Moonlight on a sun kissed body
Put your ink on my skin till it comes off on me
The TV's on again, they're dead
There's zombies in the bed

When I'm sad my words run like streams
Flooding your ears till we dive too deep
But that's how I know that you're the one for me

Cause I think about you on the train
Love how you hate what's in your brain
Watching you sleep like I'm insane
Telling you things that I find hard to say
Like I love you
I love you

Remember when we'd sit out by the graves
Laughing and talking about life
You took me to heaven when I had no faith
And showed me what love is really like

I think about you on the train
Love how you say my second name
Watching you sleep like I'm insane
Telling you things that I find hard to say
Like I love you
I think I love you
