

Never Coming Back

No Address

Mom and dad won't you listen to me
Listen to me 'cause what I'm thinkin' is
Cool the quiet little look in your eye
The bigger surprise is I'm doing fine here

While I zip my jacket up when it rains
I brush my teeth like two times a day
And though it seems so stupid to say
I'm really okay, I'm workin' hard on everything, yeah

I can't let you come in
It's just too confusing
I can't let you come in
It's just too confusing
Either you tell the truth and leave here
Or I am never coming back

Yeah, when there's something simple to say
You shrug it away, I watch you shrug it away
Cool the quiet little look in your eye
The bigger surprise is I'm doing fine

While I zip my jacket up when it rains
I brush my teeth like two times a day
And when it all falls down on my head
And I'm down on my head, I'm belly laughing again

I can't let you come in
It's just too confusing
I can't let you come in
It's just too confusing
And again you tell the truth and leave here
Or I am never coming back

No, well, I don't care what you might think
You just don't mean that much to me well, I'm awake, the night is loud and mom is quickly running out
But I don't care what you might think
You just don't mean that much to me
You just don't mean that much to me, no

Cool the quiet little look in your eye
Do you remember much that day
When mother was gone but mother was her name?
Mother was her name

I can't let you come in
It's just too confusing
I can't let you come in
It's just too confusing
Either you tell the truth and leave here
Or I am never coming back

Never, never
Never coming back

I am never coming back
Or I am never coming back
Never coming back
Never coming back
