

Staying

No Omega

Blue grey eyes
i misplaced your face,
but this time i wont be forgotten
i will be erased.

What is it i see, love?
I don't know but it could be anything, my dear a cliff, a dead-end, where it all ends

What we saw was the end of friendships.
we became too distant, I was just never there And light turned out
To be an illusion
You erased me
And dared to live.

Said that sometimes you have to dare to face your problems
To stay and confront them

But as i found myself in a situation of constant repetition Where after two years we never reached a conclusion
I started to see things differently

You stayed for two years
Nothing changed
Now you will finally make your escape
Said that sometimes you have to dare to run away
But i will stay. I am too afraid.