

My Side of the Bed

Noah Cyrus

I spend all night on my side of the bed
With my knees and my toes hangin' over the edge
'Cause I know you want space
It's not what you said but the way that you said that you're fine
When you rolled over in your sleep, I thought you were leavin'
me
I know it's not you, I believe there's somethin' missin' in me

We sink in the sofa under TV glow
You are watchin' the world end but I just can't follow
'Cause I can't stop thinking 'bout how you felt hollow when I was holding you last night
You shifted your weight in the seat, I thought you were leavin'
me
But I'm just too fragile to speak, there's somethin' broken in me

We all want the same thing, to love and be loved
It's a hard pill to swallow, but you're not enough
So I put on my coat, the world's cold and it's rough
And if you're gonna make it, you've gotta be tough, but I'm not My heart's paper-
thin and the softest of words can send me spiralin'

So I guess that my question after all of this would be:
"Are you leavin' me?"
Oh, are you leavin' me?
