

Everything Is New

Noah Gundersen

All alone in my little room
Waiting for someone to call
Food's on the table
There's ice in my drink
Waiting for someone to call

Look at my candle, consider the flame
How costly the hours, how heavy the blame
Imagine a world where you could do it again

What would you say?
What would you stay away from?
And how many days would you be afraid?

Everything's changing around you
And now you're changing too
No one could blame you for being shy
When everything is new

Going out, out on the town
So many faces to see
All of a sudden it's summer again
So many faces to see
Waking up from the longest sleep

Try and remember what you don't wanna repeat
Still, it just feels like falling in love

Everything's changing around you
And now you're changing too
No one could blame you for being shy
When everything is new

Everything's changing
And now you're changing too
No one could blame you
But don't be shy
Just cause everything is new
