

Worth None

Noga Erez

Bones are crumbling into sand
Shelter's given to whom plays safe

No doubt because your life
Because your life is worth none
No doubt because your life is worth none of this

Far lights gleaming on your bed
And you, domed in a shell
Because your life is worth, so
Demons in your drawer and in the back of your head
You shade, you are a shade

No doubt because your life
Because your life is worth none
No doubt because your life is worth none of this

No doubt because your life
Because your life is worth none
No doubt because your life is worth none of this

Never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof, never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof, never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof, never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof, never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof, never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof, never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof, never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof, never meant to break your roof
Never meant to break your roof, never meant to break your roof